

Diamond jubilee

A sparkling time was had by all at Canturi's 20th birthday.

When you're taking the Man of Steel's squeeze as your muse, it's hard to throw a less-than-super party. Such was the case when Sydney jeweller-to-the-stars Stefano Canturi celebrated his eponymous company's 20th birthday this year. Canturi's glam new city store was the venue, showcasing The Metropolis Collection – a range inspired by the pieces Canturi designed for Kate Bosworth's Lois Lane in Superman Returns. Guests enjoyed Peking duck pancakes, Moroccan spiced-lamb pastries and seared tuna with wasabi. Canturi Jewellery Salon, 80 Castlereagh St, Sydney, NSW, (02) 9231 1799.

CLINGING TO THE APRON STRINGS

Smitten? You bet – we love this local company's aprons and matching oven Smitts. They do a range of sassy patterns, all machine-washable and 100-per-cent Australian-made. Apron & Smitt sets are $50, and you can get matching kids' sizes, www.smitten.com.au.

HERE COMES THE AEROPLANE

In calling this device the Babyplane, we feel its French makers have limited themselves terribly. We can't see any reason why these roundly hilarious numbers (available in pink or blue, naturally, for about $20) should be sought solely in the event of difficult children, www.thesarutgroup.com.

SEPTEMBER IS SILVER RIBBON MONTH, so show your support for the work done by the Ovarian Cancer Research Foundation by buying a silver ribbon pin from your local NAB branch or donating at www.ocrf.com.au. Mark 24 November in your diary, too, as we proudly present the fourth annual OCRF's gala dinner bash.
